Dale Carnegie principles which deal with “winning over” wherein people will be imposed on the management skills which help them in understanding, enhance their ability to make common decision in team to make a win win situation, developing and deploying their skills to their best. As a professional, all top MNC’s expect students with all these skills which are the need of the hour.

One can expect a thought provoking activity on emotional quotient as well as team work where in highly deep profound message will be delivered through these activities. The main motto behind these activities is to give a real time experience of outside world.
