1. Introduction

India has become a promising investment destination for foreign companies looking to do business here. Our Honorable Prime Minister of India Shri Narendra Modi has launched the 'Make in India' initiative with the aim to give the Indian economy global recognition. This initiative is expected to spur development, economical growth and thereby improving the living standard of Indian Citizen.

Engineering education has to play very important role in providing huge pool of skilled and knowledgeable, and industry ready engineers. The future success of Indian industry depends on the growth of quality engineering education in India, especially since Indian industry is competing globally in areas such as software and hardware electronics, automobiles, pharmaceutical, chemicals, engineering equipment etc. In India, the brightest students opt for engineering after the 12th standard. This has resulted in a spurt of engineering colleges. However, the reality is that only a very small percentage of these students are readily employable (@25% or less as per the survey by Nasscom) and most lack industry specific skills. In order to bridge this gap between the academia and the industry and to ensure ready deployment in regular work streams, structured industry specific training is necessary.
